Urged Them to Speed Things.

Dr. Winston, of Farmville, offered a esolution requesting members to rerain from needless questions and resolution requesting members to refrain from needless questions and dilatory tactics, such as calling for recorded votes where there was no question as to the result, and where much time was consumed. The resolution was adopted. It was explaince that a great deal of time has been lost at this session, not by formal speechmaking, but by a running crossfire of questions, frequently asked, not for the purpose of gaining information, but of confusing the real issue.

Mr. Meetze offered a resolution proposing a change in the rules of the flouse, providing for the election of committees instead of for their appointment by the Speaker. It was re-committees instead of for their ap-pointment by the Speaker. It was re-ferred to the Committee on Rules. On motion of Mr. Spatig, the old carpet recently removed from the floor of the House of Delegates, instead of being sold, was presented to the Virginia School for Colored Deaf and Blind Children, at Newport News. Bouse Night Session.

The scramble to save from the wreckage of unconsidered bills semething believed to be of merit continued last night until midnight. It was stated again and again that the House had already advanced twice as many bills as could possibly be passed in the limited time now remaining. The mere matter of roil calls alone would take more time than remains of this session, yet after this announcement had been made by the floor leader and clerk of the House more than forty bills were forced to their engressment in the hope that either by some arcident or possibly by means of an all-night session to-night these bills may be finally voted on and sent to the Senate before the time arrives to-morrow morning, when, under the joint resolution, only bills from the other branch may be considered.

Tilt Between Gregory and Cox.
Each member who had notified the Speaker that he wished to call a bill up out of its order was allowed to do so, Speaker Cox making a list of such applicants and calling on them in turn. Until this was understood there was some dissatisfaction among those who rose on the floor and were not recognized. Something of a till between Mr. Gregory, of New Kent, and the Speaker resulted from this misunderstanding, but when it was explained Mr. Gregory apologized, and both he and the Speaker won the applause of the House.

Mr. Land secured the advancement on the calendar of his bill giving certain powers to supervisors of counties, intended to give a larger measure of home rule, and at the same time relieve the General Assembly from the burden of passing an enormous number of local bills. Torrens Land Registration.

Mr. Adams secured favorable consideration for his bill for instituting a new system of land registration, known as the Torrens system. The bill was advanced to an early place on the calendar, and will almost certainly be reached on its final passage. As it stands it applies to only such cities and counties as desire to adopt the new methods of land registration, but the patrons believe that once given a fair trial in Virginia it will not be long until the entire State abandons the present antiquated and insecure method of registering land litles.

Mr. Gunn called up and secured favorable action on the bill in relation to the Virginia Home and Industrial School for Girls in Chesterfield County. The bill provides, upon the conveyance of the real and personal property of the institution to the State, that the State assume control, operation and management, assume the existing indebtedness not to exceed $1,500; that there shall be named a board of trustees appointed by the Governor, who shall either continue the institution at its present location, or sell the property and reinvest the funds in a home for girls at some other location. Mr. Gordon opposed the bill. It was the entering wedge, he believed, to a movement to have the State care for all unfortunate women, and while the home now has only about thirty inmates, he believed in a few years the State would be called on to care for many hundreds.

Mr. Gregory took the ground that Boys' Oxford. Straight model. Full oak sole, firm heel and ankle grasp. In Gun Metal and Russia Calf. Price, 93.00.

THE SMILE THAT WON'T COME OFF.

There's no use scolding and fretting that boy of yours about taking care of his shoes. He simply can't help kicking and shuffling and scrambling. He's a boy.

The sooner you mothers and we merchants realize that, the better. The Oxford illustrated above goes a long way to realize it, to preserve boys' rights and mothers' pocket-books. It isn't too exaggerated to say that this shoe has something of the smile that won't come off. Kick it around, cuff it about, it seems to grin back defiantly demanding more.

Well, no, it isn't a human shoe, nor a superhuman shoe, but it is as full of durability as the best leather and the most skilful human hands can make it. And you know our guarantee is behind it. At any time if you have cause for complaint send the shoes back and the matter will be adjusted to your complete satisfaction.

A MANNISH LAST. A MANNISH LAST.

There's nothing a boy hatea so bitterly as a part of his clothing that has a babyish or sissified air. He's afraid of what the other fellows will say. So we've made these extends, as we do all our boys' shoes, on a mannish last, but with ample consideration for the growing foot.

HERE'S THE TEST OF OUR GUARANTEE.

It is the boy who puts a guarantee of any article of clothing to the severest test.

Naturally, our guarantee includes boys' shoes. If you have never tried Cammeyer shoes, it might be wise to begin with a pair for your boy—just to see how good they are. The Oxford illustrated in this advertisement is made on a strong, styrdy last and has a full oak sole.
